The last few years have represented collective hardship around the world. The COVID pandemic showed us not only the fragility of human life, but also how our well-being is deeply interconnected and just how much we can achieve if we work together. The rapid invention and distribution of an effective vaccine is just one example. Sadly, now, just as we were starting to recover from the uncertainty, stress, death and destruction wrought by the pandemic, war and economic and humanitarian crises are hammering away at the same vulnerable populations.

We are deeply concerned and affected by the current situation in Sri Lanka where people are struggling more than ever to meet their basic needs such as food, transport, health and education. However, IMHO has always been committed to responding quickly in times of need and crisis and we hope to rise to the circumstances again. During the last 18 years, we have delivered over $10 million worth of services, including $3.4 million for COVID relief, primarily to Sri Lanka, but also India and the USA. Our accomplishments are only possible through the generosity of our donors and the dedication and hard work of our partners.

Just as we are committed to addressing crisis situations, we are equally passionate about supporting projects that will make a sustainable change in society. When we started IMHO, our focus was mainly on improving the health care needs of the underserved and the underprivileged, however, we have more recently become increasingly involved with education and community development projects. Education is the foundation upon which all social progress and development are based. We believe that by investing in education and children, we ensure not only a better, healthier and more prosperous future for them but also for the whole society. We have included reports of the programs supported by IMHO in the last year for you to see how your money has been spent.

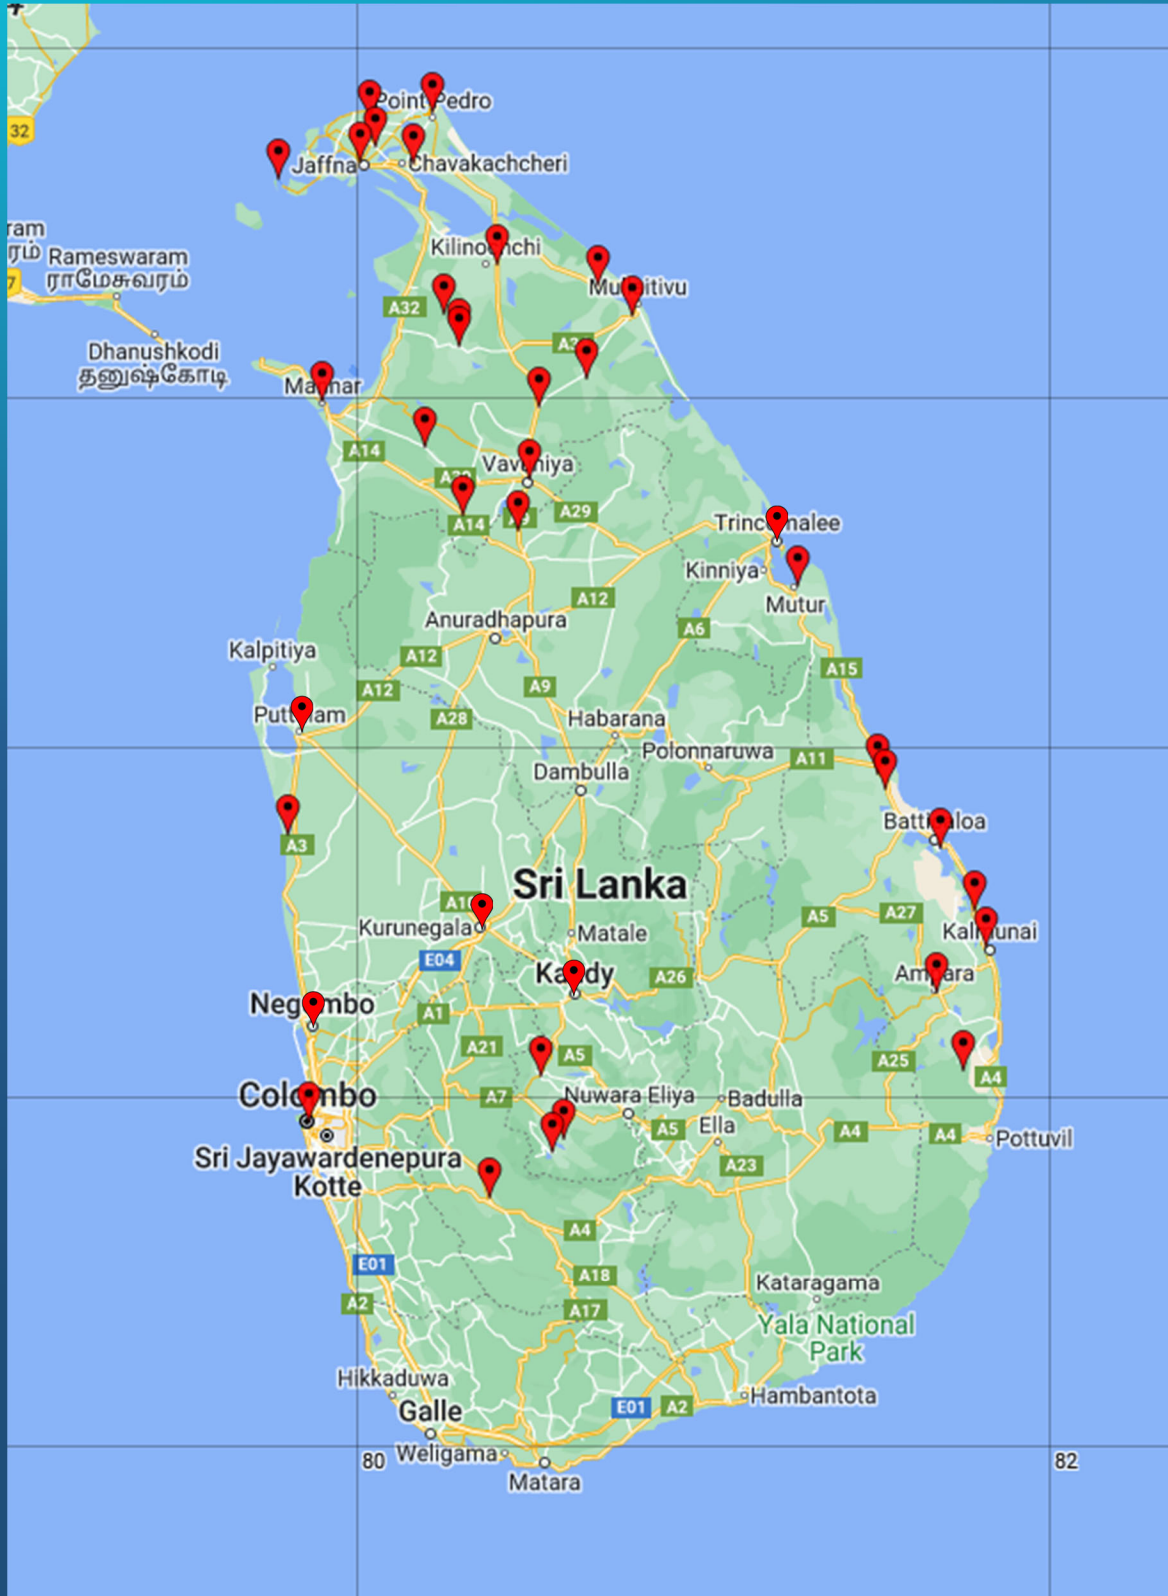

As we look to the year ahead and the many challenges it will inevitably hold, we appeal to you for your continued support. Sometimes the endless cascade of problems seems like they are too overwhelming to address, however, at IMHO we know that with thoughtful projects and small steps, we can work towards a better future. We are grateful for your continued support in helping us get there.

With Gratitude,
The IMHO Board of Directors

Improving Reading Skills of Students

- “Reading is an essential part of education”
- Barathy Reading Hut is located at Brownlow Estate, Maskeliya.
- It was renovated by IMHO and inaugurated on October 30th, 2021 to improve the students’ reading and leadership skills.
- Additionally, IMHO has donated furniture and 186 books for the wellbeing of the students. In the beginning, the students had to stand to read the books. Now they have a comfortable spot to sit down and read. Encouraging the students to read will improve their standard of education, their general knowledge, and their lifestyle.
- Adults have also been encouraged to read as much as they can . They are allowed to select their own reading materials including newspapers and various other books.
- There are 58 active reading groups running in 30 locations. In total, they serve 960 children.
- Total Project Cost to renovate Barathy reading room: $ 2,000

Educating the Next Generation

IMHO 2022

Caring Hands Project

- IMHO supports 120 destitute children from Maskeliya and 100 from Kotagala. These children were forced to stop their education in order to provide for their families. IMHO has intervened by providing their families with 3000 LKR worth of dry rations every month.
- This additional support has allowed the children in question to return to school.
- Total Cost: $ 35,000/year

IMHO 2022

School Water Supply & Sanitation Project

IMHO aims to develop the holistic educational experience of school-aged children in Hill Country areas. In the past, students and the teachers have been gravely affected without access to clean water facilities and sanitation. IMHO continues to support the schools in meeting these needs.

More than 25,000 students and about 850 teachers at 25 different schools have benefitted so far.

Total cost since 2016 - $ 50,000

IMHO 2022

Water Supply & Sanitation Project

Outcomes

Studies show that students do better in schools when they are emotionally and physically healthy. They miss fewer classes, are less likely to engage in antisocial behavior, concentrate more and achieve higher test scores

Vast improvement in attendance. They can spend their free time at the library and laboratory to improve their general knowledge.

Teachers can also teach their students without any disturbance as all facilities are available to them in their respective schools.
